UNICO TEAMS UP WITH UPONOR FOR TRAINING

Unico System International's focus on training has been given a new dimension thanks to an agreement with Uponor, the world leading heating and ventilation company. Uponor's superb training centre in Lutterworth, Leicestershire will now be used as a venue for Unico System training programmes – both CPD accredited courses and general Unico System courses for contractors, developers, specifiers and end-users.

Unico System manufactures the unique mini-duct central heating and cooling system for both commercial and residential new build and refurbishment projects. Two systems have been installed within the Uponor facility to provide the perfect levels of comfort for all delegates who will be using it. The low noise levels and precise control of temperature that the Unico System can provide are ideal for training centres of this kind.

“This is a fantastic new training venture for Unico System in the UK,” says Scott Intagliata, the company's Managing Director. “Training and education forms an essential part of Unico System's customer services. Now there is easy access to our training function for our Midlands and Northern customer base.”

Anyone interested in Unico System's training courses held at the Uponor Training Centre or elsewhere in the UK can visit www.unicosystem.co.uk or contact Unico System International, Ynyshir Industrial Estate, Porth, RHONDDA, CF39 OHU, Tel: 01443 684828, Fax: 01443 684838, E-mail: scott@unicosystem.com

Unico System International Ltd is a sister company of Unico Inc. in the United States. This is a privately-held company dedicated solely to producing the Unico System, an indoor air handler and flexible mini-duct system that offers more options than any other conventional heating/ventilation/air conditioning (HVAC) system. The Unico System is suitable for use in existing buildings as well as for use in new construction.
